Porthole Skeleton is a watch with no secrets. The second edition of the model designed to celebrate 25 years of Nautica Watches has had a makeover. Once again, Porthole Skeleton is ready to surprise everyone with a design which is both technical yet sophisticated. Starting with the iconic case which recalls the porthole, enveloping a high, skeleton-cut dial which reveals the gears of the watch's beating heart: an automatic-winding mechanical movement. In true Nautica style, the flags return in the form of indices and screw crowns. Even the shade of blue chosen for the silicone strap, and the case of the model which represents Nautica's ongoing research, is a declaration of love to the sea. And if it is true that it's the details that make the difference, the porthole on top of the box will not go unnoticed; it affords a glimpse of the Porthole Skeleton, as if it were a gem from the seas to be admired.
